

FOUR SEASONS

MAGAZINE

CITY-BREAK UPDATE
PARIS, PRAGUE, TOKYO, AND MORE

FINANCIAL NEW YORK
BEYOND WALL STREET

Dispatches

Golfing in Dubai and Provence

In a city known for superlatives, Four Seasons has opened a vibrant new entertainment destination, FOUR SEASONS GOLF CLUB DUBAI FESTIVAL CITY. Its centrepiece is the renowned Al Badia course, designed by Robert Trent Jones II, 18 holes of championship golf with intriguing “rivers of sand.” The focal point is the curvilinear Clubhouse, designed to capture the swirl of a golfer’s swing, with three restaurants and an atrium lounge, as well as conference facilities. It’s the perfect place for a casual round with friends, high-quality destination dining or your next Dubai business event. fourseasons.com/dubaigolf

More golf news, this from the south of France: FOUR SEASONS RESORT PROVENCE AT TERRE BLANCHE has introduced the unique Biomecaswing Performance Centre, a diagnostic and training facility for improving your golf performance. Useful for novice or experienced golfers as well as high-level athletes, the programme includes physiological and movement analyses. Solutions that have contributed to numerous victories on the PGA Tour will be adapted to your personal level. fourseasons.com/provence/golf

Biomecaswing
in Provence

Postcard from Alexandria

Four Seasons will rekindle the glamour and prestige of San Stefano, Egypt’s legendary Mediterranean resort destination within the city of Alexandria, with the opening of FOUR SEASONS HOTEL ALEXANDRIA later this spring. At Grand Plaza, a state-ly multi-use crescent hugging the Corniche, Four Seasons will combine comfortable, classic accommodations with a multitude of restaurants, an infinity-edge swimming podium and a large European spa. Mediterranean breezes cool year-round. Alexandria is Egypt’s second-largest city and offers a compelling mix of historical, cultural and recreational opportunities. fourseasons.com/alexandria/preview

